

How much does a plastic pigtail channel cost in Australia

AI Overview

Plastic pigtail channels in Australia typically cost between AUD 20 and AUD 80 per metre, depending on size, material, and supplier. Overview Plastic pigtail channels, often used for drainage and stormwater management, are usually made from tough recycled plastic and come in various sizes and shapes to suit different applications. They are designed to be installed before concrete pours and can be fitted with different grates for surface drainage. Price Range Small residential channels (narrow width, simple design) generally cost around AUD 20–40 per metre. Larger or heavy-duty channels suitable for commercial or industrial use can range from AUD 50–80 per metre. Prices may vary based on supplier, delivery location, and quantity. Suppliers in Australia Bunnings: Offers a range of drainage channels and grates for residential and light commercial use, with online ordering and Click & Collect options. Raptor Supplies: Stocks plastic U-shaped channel stock and can provide quotes for bulk orders with delivery across Australia. Allcon Group: Supplies recycled plastic drainage channels in multiple sizes and grates, suitable for both residential and commercial projects. Additional Considerations Delivery and shipping costs may apply depending on your location. Bulk orders often attract discounts. Installation accessories such as end caps, connectors, and grates may add to the total cost. For the most accurate pricing, it is recommended to contact suppliers directly with your required channel dimensions and quantity to obtain a tailored quote.
